Glasgow Merchant Has New Store Lighting System.

Arthur Wilson, maker of Scotch fabrics, who arrived yesterday by the Anchor liner Columbia, said he would infroduce here cloth of good quality from which it would be possible to make to order for $21 suits that are now selling for more than twice that amount.

Mr. Wilson owns two department stores in Glasgow and bolieves that the lower cost of labor in Scotland will help him to underbid the American market. He predicts a further drop in the price of clothing in the winter.

He also has a rew lighting system for department stores which, he says, will reveal colors more distinctly than they appear in daylight and make it possible to match the most delicate shades.
